ARREST 3,000 IN CHICAGO'S BIGGEST RAID

Every Known Dive in City Raided Over the Week End

Chicago, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Three thousand persons were arrested between Saturday night and today's dawn in one of the most sudden, widespread and successful police drives in the history of Chicago.

Raids were conducted against every known habitat of the gangster, gunman and robber. Where doors were locked, doors were smashed open. The theater district swarmed with plain clothes men, seeking the "dress suit" crooks, and police patrols were booked for hours ahead, so swift were the arrests.

In Answer to Crime Wave.
The drive was Police Chief William Russell's answer to a week of crime marked by 102 robberies in which four persons were shot dead and several others seriously wounded.

Two-thirds of the city's force of 6,000 policemen were kept on double duty over Sunday to insure the success of the drive.

Squad leaders got their orders from Deputy Commissioner John Stege in these words:

"Every joint in this town is to be visited. Never mind injunctions. If you're barred, grab an axe and chop your way in. Grab every crook with a record that you see. Don't bother seizing booze. Leave the working man and the respectable people alone. Raid the night clubs, the theaters, the hotels, the beer flats. I want every crook in Chicago in a cell by Monday morning."

Also Combed the Streets.
Besides the raids, police had random squads at work everywhere making arrests at street corners—anywhere they might come upon persons with police records or who were unable to give satisfactory accounts of themselves.

With every police district in the city participating, arrests were made by the hundreds every hour. In many cases officers and their prisoners waited for hours on the street before the arrival of a patrol to transport them to the police station.

Several names often found in police records were listed among the persons arrested, although so far as was known no "wanted" man of especial note was taken. The full result of the drive remained to be seen at the special "showup" today when those arrested were to be paraded before the victims of recent holdups and robberies for possible identification.

Two Sterlingites Known Here Died

Marquis P. Bassett, a native of Ogle county, who enlisted in Co. K, Second Illinois Infantry in this city for service in the Civil War, and who was well known by old soldiers throughout this part of the state, died at his home in Sterling Saturday after a long illness. Funeral services were held this afternoon.

POLICE GUARDED STERLING DEPOT —FEARED HOLDUP

Warning Of a Plot to Raid Mail Car Brings Out Whole Force

State Highway Policeman Hal Roberts of this city was called to Sterling Saturday morning by Sergeant Kemper to assist in thwarting a hold-up, which it was believed had been planned at the Chicago & North Western passenger station there; but if such an attempt had been contemplated the presence of many officers at the depot resulted in the would-be robbers failing to appear.

According to Chief of Police Bucher of Sterling, he got a tip of the proposed robbery when he overheard a conversation between two strangers Friday evening. The information the Chief learned was to the effect that an effort would be made to steal a pouch of money consigned for the First National Bank of Rock Falls, part of which was the payroll for the Russell, Birdsall, Ward factory of that city, when it was being transferred from a morning passenger train to the truck for conveyance across the river.

Fifteen officers, each armed, were stationed at various advantageous places about the station, the state officers having machine guns ready for action, when the train arrived. No attempt was made to molest the mail messenger, and the pouch for the Rock Falls bank was safely delivered under the officers' escort.

Supreme Court Will Decide Pocket Veto

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today considered to pass on the validity of "pocket" vetoes by the President.

Although the question reached the court in a case brought by the Okanogan, Colville and other Indians in Washington state, it is considered to be of importance also in determining the status of Muscle Shoals legislation which President Coolidge failed to sign after Congress adjourned its last session.

MILK STRIKE MAY GET TO GRAND JURY

Situation Grows Worse —Violence Visited Truck Drivers

Chicago, Jan. 21.—(AP)—City health authorities today demanded a grand jury investigation of the "dairymen's strike" that menaces the Chicago milk supply.

There were several reports of violence by armed men; of the dumping of thousands of pounds of milk; and of the mixing of kerosene with milk. Dr. Arnold Kegel, Chicago Health Commissioner, has asked the state's Attorney's office to institute grand jury action; leaders of the striking milk farmers said they would welcome it.

Shortage is Growing
Chicago's milk supply yesterday was 400,000 quarts under normal, yet distributors said they had been able to supply all demands. A shortage as great, or greater, was predicted for today.

Dr. Kegel asked Mayor Thompson for a $15,000 emergency appropriation to be used in employing chemists. Additional chemists are needed, the commissioner said to keep a 24 hour staff available for the testing of milk and for the protection of the city's milk.

Pollute Milk With Kerosene
Almost the entire supply of one large dealer was found polluted by kerosene. The pollution was blamed by distributors upon the strikers who are demanding $2.25 a hundredweight instead of the $2.50 distributors are paying.

A department of justice agent was expected today to begin an investigation. United States Senator Otis F. Glenn told officials of the pure milk association in response to their plea that he asked that department to intervene in the dispute. Dr. Isaac Rawlings, Director of the State Department of Health, also volunteered services of his department.

Driver Beaten Unconscious
Additional producers joined the strikers' ranks yesterday as violence became more widespread.

John E. Stanczyk was set upon by seven men, armed with shotguns, near Lake Forest yesterday. He was pulled from his truck, beaten unconscious and his head of almost 1000 pounds of milk was dumped into a ditch.

About 30,000 pounds of milk were destroyed yesterday; 2500 pounds dumped from two trucks at Union Grove, Wis.; 19,000 pounds poured from two trucks between Cary and Crystal Lake, Ill.; and 1000 pounds spoiled with kerosene at Lake Zurich, Ill. One hundred men seized 65,000 pounds of milk from a train at Mo. Henry, Ill., and poured it on the ground.

Ten automobile loads of men halted two trucks at Fox Lake Grove and dumped the milk.

Farmers living near Waukegan, Ill. have resorted to house-to-house peddling among residents of the dairy belt.

One creamery at Waukegan effected a compromise with the dairymen agreeing to pay $2.75 a hundredweight.

Injunction Granted
A temporary injunction restraining members of the Pure Milk Association from interfering with the transportation of milk to Chicago, was issued today in Lake county circuit court by Judge Claire C. Edwards.

The activities of the association, members in spilling milk along the roadways threatened the city with a milk shortage.

The injunction was granted at the request of the Bowman Company. The company in its petition to the court said it operated 19 receiving stations in Lake, Boone, Cook, Will, Kan and McHenry counties in Illinois, having a total value of $1,500,000. Fourteen of the company's trucks have been intercepted since Saturday night and 205,000 pounds of milk spilled, the petition recited.

HOOVER STARTED FOR FLORIDA ON A SPECIAL TRAIN

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—President-elect Hoover left this morning for Florida, where he will remain until his return here for the March 4 inauguration. Mr. Hoover is going to Belle Isle, near Miami, where he will reside at the J. C. Penney estate. His special train is scheduled to reach Miami tomorrow afternoon.

No ceremony was arranged to accompany the departure, but a small crowd had gathered at Union station to see Mr. and Mrs. Hoover board their train.

INQUEST IN DEATH OF JERRY JUDGE; FUNERAL TUESDAY

Laborer Gives Details of Accident That Killed
Dixon Man

Coroner Frank M. Banker conducted an inquest over the remains of Jerry Judge at the Jones funeral home Saturday afternoon, the jury returning a verdict of death due to secondhand burns. Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from the late residence, 216 East Seventh street at 9 o'clock and from St. Patrick's Catholic church at 9:30 with burial in Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Judge was born at Westport, Ireland, March 19, 1867 and came to the United States when but three years of age. For the past 24 years and eight months he had been continuously in the employ of the Sandusky Cement company, serving 22 years and eight months at the Dixon plant. Could he have lived four months longer, he would have rounded out a quarter of a century as an employee of the company. He had been associated with Superintendent W. E. Wurth for more than 35 years. Mr. Judge had started at the bottom in the cement manufacturing industry and worked up to the responsible position of mill foreman and master mechanic of the Dixon plant.

About 10 o'clock Wednesday morning of last week, Mr. Judge was superintending the changing of a die-ring in the coal grinding department of the cement plant, in which operation it was necessary to weld one of the heavy steel castings which weighed about 3,600 pounds. Isadore Czackie, a laborer, was assisting in the task. A fire had been made on a platform between two buildings, old sacks being used and these were soaked with kerosene oil, to create sufficient heat to thaw the frost out of the heavy casting before the weld could be made.

Kerosene Can Exploded.
Mr. Judge picked up a two gallon can which contained one gallon of kerosene, to pour more oil onto the fire, when the can exploded. The burning oil was thrown over his clothing from his waist to his feet. Czackie's clothing also caught fire, but the laborer soon extinguished the flames and ran to another department where he summoned other workmen who rushed to Mr. Judge's assistance, smothered the flames and removed the burning clothing. He was given first aid attention at the plant and removed to the Dixon public hospital, where death ended his suffering at about 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Through an interpreter Czackie told the story of the tragedy to the coroner's jury Saturday afternoon. Michael Nolan also testified.

Patrick Jeremiah "Jerry" Judge, is survived by his widow and seven children as follows: Martin, Miss Lillian, John, Miss Eileen at home, William and Miss Kathryn of Chicago, and Joseph, a student at Notre Dame.

TWO MEN KILLED BY HOTEL FIRE IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Two persons met death, ten were injured and 100 guests and employees were driven to the street by a fire which burned the National Hotel, in the downtown district here late Sunday.

Both victims were suffocated, although one body was partly burned when found. They were identified through names on the register as John J. Jones, 45 years old, Williston, N. D., and Albin Scott, 26 years old, Frederic, Wis.

Two of the injured were said by physicians to be in a serious condition.

The hotel, one of the oldest landmarks in the city, was completely destroyed. Origin of the blaze was not determined. The loss was estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

Substitute For to Meet Sammy Mandell

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, will box Jack Gillespie, Detroit, here tomorrow night instead of Joe Azzarella of Milwaukee. The substitution was made by American Legion officials when Azzarella reported he had fractured a hand in training.

Mandell's title will not be at stake, as his opponent will exceed the lightweight poundage. It will be the champion's first bout since he fractured his collar bone in a bout with Jimmy Goodrich last September.

EMMERSON TALKS TO PRINTERS ON BENJ. FRANKLIN

Governor Makes First Public Appearance
Since Inauguration

Chicago, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Governor Louis L. Emmerson made his first public appearance since his inauguration at the Old Time Printers' dinner commemorating the 223rd birthday anniversary of Benjamin Franklin Saturday.

Governor Emmerson, who delivered the principal address, believes "no period of history is greater than the present age."

"If Franklin were Governor of Illinois today," he said "my impression of him is that he would operate the government with the greatest possible economy, that the burden might be light as possible upon the taxpayers."

"He would stand for great public improvements, such as hard roads and waterways. He would advocate the best possible educational system. He would take a great interest in state institutions, and could be depended upon for great humanitarianism in the conduct of the philanthropic institutions."

"He would be amazed to find the vast number of machines men have made to carry on his discoveries about electricity, to find that electricity does the major portion of our work today. We have made so much progress since his time that he would be overwhelmed."

A resolution was adopted urging congress to set aside Jan. 17, the date of Franklin's birth, as a national legal holiday.

DR. LITTLE, HEAD OF MICHIGAN U. IS TO RESIGN TONIGHT

Young University President
Quits Because of Friction In Job

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 21.—(AP)—It was learned authoritatively today that Dr. Clarence Cook Little, one of the youngest heads of a major American university, will resign as president of the University of Michigan tonight. The resignation is understood to have been prepared for presentation at the monthly meeting of the board of regents.

Members of the board, speaking unofficially, said they had not been informed of the resignation, but that it probably would be accepted if offered at tonight's meeting.

Reports that Dr. Little would resign have been current for several days. Disagreement between the president and regents over administration policies, and friction with alumni organizations have been advanced as probable reasons for the predicted action.

Will Ask Leave of Absence
The resignation would take effect Sept. 1, but it was understood Dr. Little would request a leave of absence, beginning June 1. He said yesterday he had been offered no other position, but it is known he has under consideration a plan to continue his research work in cancer under the Rockefeller Foundation.

Dr. Little aroused strong antagonism and equally vigorous support soon after he came here from the University of Maine in September, 1925, by public advocacy of a "sane form" of birth control, a ban on student use of motor cars, denunciation of the so called blacklist of the D. A. R. and attempts, in several instances, to inaugurate new educational methods.

His administration has been termed "paternalistic" because of his close supervision over student affairs.

Marshal Foch Is Able To Sit Up

Paris, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch was so much better today that his doctors permitted him to get out of bed and sit in an arm chair for a few minutes. He was also allowed to read some messages which have arrived from various parts of the world during the last week.

The ban on visitors to the sick-room, however, was not lifted by the doctors despite the Marshal's requests to see General Weygand.

The doctors said their patient's strength was increasing daily and his appetite was apparently growing with each successive meal. His spirits have never once been depressed during his entire illness.

Rockelle Promotes Public Golf Course

A movement is on foot in Rockelle looking toward the acquisition of a public golf course. An option has been taken on a tract of 55 acres adjoining a ten-acre tract owned by the city, and it is probable a list of 60 charter members at $300 will be secured to finance the project. Over half that number had been signed Saturday.

5 NAVY MEN DROWNED IN SHIP CRASH

Accident in Panama Canal Channel Fatal to Five

Panama, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Five American navy men were drowned yesterday when an officers' gig of the U. S. S. Whitney collided with a barge in the Panama Canal channel. Separate investigations were being conducted today by canal officials and by Rear Admiral Frank H. Clark in command of the American destroyer squadrons.

The men drowned were: Captain Ralph Griswold, commanding officer of the ninth destroyer scouting squadron, and Chief Pay Clerk Arthur S. Wrenn, both of Washington; Coxswain Fred W. Seaman, Herbert D. McDowell of Jacksonville, Fla.; and Fireman Earl D. Tibbets, of Haverhill, Mass.

Four Saved Themselves.
Four other occupants of the gig saved themselves. They were: Captain William J. Giles, commander of the destroyer, Tender Whitney, and Seamen Walter C. Rowell, Albert W. Gatewood and James P. Powers.

The gig left the officer's landing pier shortly after 4 a. m. A relief crew supplanting the regular crew who had been sent to their ships for oversteering their leaves ashore was aboard.

As the gig swung out from the pier the canal tug Mariner with a tow was coming along the center of the canal about three hundred yards from the shore. Towing lights were displayed by the tug, but the coxswain of the gig apparently thought the barges were behind the gig where they were on each side.

Survivors said that no one aboard the gig had noticed the barges until about thirty feet from one of them. Then a man cried to the coxswain, "look out! There's a lighter alongside!"

Previously Captain Giles had ordered the gig's speed cut to half because the main bearing was burned out. When the coxswain heard the cry of warning he swung the rudder over but the gig struck on the starboard bow. Everybody was thrown overboard.

MINNICK SUIT IS SETTLED, IS TO BE DROPPED

George Minnick's suit against Peter Knab, Cicero truck dealer, who is charged with alienating the affections of Mrs. Minnick, will not be tried before the Lee county circuit court again. The case appeared on the court docket to be tried this week and a jury was to have been selected this afternoon to begin hearing evidence in the case which was tried at the January term a year ago. The retrial of the case had been contemplated by many for weeks, as it was rumored that a drake duck was to have been introduced into the case by plaintiff's attorneys.

Attorneys on both sides conferred last week, both announcing that they were ready to proceed with the trial today. Late Saturday afternoon County Judge William Leech, who with H. A. Brooks appeared for Minnick, announced that the case had been settled very agreeably to all parties out of court. The original suit was for $10,000 and the jury awarded a verdict for $5,000, half the amount when the case was tried last January. Minnick's attorneys would not hint at the amount of the settlement, evading the question by answering:

"We are all very well pleased by the very satisfactory settlement which has been effected in the case."

Hitching of Sleds to Autos Is Barred

Charleston, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Hitching of sleds to automobiles has been prohibited in Charleston since several cases of monoxide poisoning from exhausts have been reported. None of them are serious but several children were quite ill. Danger of running over sleds by cars is another menace. Police have announced that the motorist who allows hitching will be held equally responsible with those who hitch.

RIVER IS RISING.

Mt. Carmel, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Wabash river continued to rise steadily today and flooded a large area of lowland. The stage at 7 a. m. was 16.7 feet of 7 above flood level. The forecast was for a rise of several feet more within a few days.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

JOHN TROUTH DIED
John Trouth of Perry, Iowa, a brother of Jacob and Fred Trouth of this city, died Sunday morning at his home in Perry. The funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon.

INJURED COASTING

Lois Beede, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beede, 129 North Galena avenue, sustained dislocation of her right elbow when she fell from her sled while coasting Sunday.

BROKE COLLAR BONE

Willie Wedlake, 913 Assembly Place, suffered a broken collar bone while coasting Sunday, when he was thrown from his sled, which he had hitched behind an automobile.

REV. DUFFY TO BROADCAST
Rev. James O. Duffy, former pastor of Grace Evangelical church in this city, who has many friends in this community, will broadcast a message from radio station WMBI, Chicago, tomorrow afternoon from 3:30 to 4 o'clock.

ILL IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Marion Fenton, who is employed by Marshall Field & Company in Chicago, is a patient in the Presbyterian hospital in that city where she is receiving treatment for an infection in one of her hands. Her condition for a time was considered very serious but late reports indicate that she is slightly improved. Her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

HAND IS MANGLED

C. Wilson of Polo, an employee at the Grand Detour division of the J. I. Case Co. in this city, suffered a painful accident while at work at the shops Saturday noon, in which his right hand was badly mangled in a punch press. The middle and ring fingers were the most severely crushed, the attending surgeon finding it necessary to amputate the latter. But for the fact that a small piece of iron was under the drop of the press his entire hand would have been crushed.

BUS DRIVER IS FINED $100 FOR RECKLESSNESS

Outcome Of Accident on Highway Near Dixon; Woman Hurt

Edward Plack of Chicago, driver for the Yellow bus system of Oakland, Cal., was fined $100 and costs by Justice J. O. Shauls Saturday on a charge of reckless driving. County Judge William Leech and State's Attorney Mark Keller appeared to prosecute the charge which was the outcome of an accident on the Lincoln Highway Sunday, September 30, in which an automobile occupied by Clyde Bolman, wife and son and another in-law of Glen Elynn, turned over after being sideswiped by the bus on the Lincoln Highway just west of the Emmert cemetery.

All of the people were badly injured and Mrs. Bolman, according to testimony introduced at the hearing Saturday, will soon submit to another operation for the removal of bones splintered in her shoulder at the time of the accident. A. C. Murdoch of Chicago and Eugene Callahan of this city were witnesses who testified having seen the west bound bus in the attempt to pass the Bolman car, turning it over and coming to a stop. The charge of operating a motor vehicle without Illinois license plates, which was sworn out at the time of the accident, was not heard at this time. It was reported that the motor coach company also arranged to care for all of the expenses incurred by members of the Bolman family in recovering from their injuries.

Local Bowlers Will Compete In Tourney

A team of five local bowlers, all of whom have not yet been selected, will go to Springfield next Sunday to compete in the Central State tournament in the alleys of which Otto Peters, formerly of Dixon, is in charge. It is thought, also, that a Dixon team will be entered in the A. B. C. tournament to be held in Chicago.

RACED TO OPERATION

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Rev. C. P. O'Neill, pastor of Sacred Heart church, underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis last night after a Rock Island train made one of the fastest trips in the history of the road from Chicago, bearing Dr. Hugh McCanna, who performed the operation.

Rev. O'Neill's condition is considered serious.

M. BUBRICK, AGE 14, IS ICE VICTIM

Heroic Companion Summons Rescuers —See Boy Sink

Michael Bubrick, aged 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bubrick who reside south of the cement plant on state highway route 2, was the victim of a tragic drowning in Rock River about 1:30 Sunday afternoon, the culmination of a skating party on which he was accompanied by Melvin Helgeson, aged 14. The body was recovered at 3:20 less than two hours later by a searching party which worked continuously, breaking away ice and dragging the river.

Michael and the Helgeson boy went out on the ice about 12:45 just above the site of the new power house. They put on their skates and skated over to the north shore and were returning, when the Bubrick boy told his companion that he was going ashore. The spot he selected was on very thin ice about 250 feet west of the cement company's ice house. There were no places between above and below the spot. Michael removed his skates and threw them to the shore and stepped back to run shoreward when his companion called to him warning him of the danger of crossing on the thin ice, and asking him to go up the river where the surface was solid.

Broke Through Thin Ice
According to the Helgeson boy, Michael answered that this was the shortest route to his home, across the thin ice and started to run. He broke through the ice and fell into the cold water. It was at this point of the tragedy that the Helgeson boy performed a heroic effort in an attempt to save the life of his companion. Calling to Michael to hold to the edge of the ice, he ran some distance and dragged a heavy limb which he threw into the water, and ordered Michael to cling to the timber until he could summon aid.

Men Saw Him Sink

The Bubrick boy fought in vain to prevent being drowned and battled in the cold water, weighted down with heavy clothing, clinging to the edge of the thin ice which broke away under his weight. After young Helgeson had thrown the limb into the water and observed that Michael had grasped it to hold himself up, he started to run to the site where the new power house is under construction and where a force of men were at work. When he arrived at the power house, he was too exhausted to make known his message and fell against a fence. Workmen observed him and ran to him. He gasped the word "help" and finally was able to tell the workmen that his companion had fallen into the river west of the ice house. Several of the workmen started for the scene, equipped with ropes and poles. Bert Rosenbaum was one of the first to reach the scene and threw a rope out into the water. Michael was exhausted in the cold water and his head and one hand could be seen when the rescue party arrived. After the rope had been thrown out toward him he sank to the bottom.

Body Soon Recovered.

Workmen from the cement plant and from the construction crew building the power house, worked valiantly until the body was recovered. It was necessary to break locks and chains some distance down the river and drag boats to the scene, when men went out and broke away a large field of ice which was necessary before dragging operations could be started. The first trip with the drag hooks caught in clothing a few feet from the spot where he sank from sight. The body was removed to the Jones funeral home where Coroner Frank M. Banker conducted an inquest at 10 o'clock this morning. The jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

Michael Bubrick was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bubrick. He was born in Dixon township, February 13, 1914 and at the time of his death was aged 14 years, 11 months and seven days. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today and, with the complete obituary, will be announced later.

Funeral is Wednesday
The funeral of Michael Bubrick will be held Wednesday morning. Services will be conducted from the home east of the city at 9 o'clock and from St. Patrick's Catholic church at 9:30. Burial will take place in Oakwood.

Kishwaukee Church Burned Sunday Morning

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Loss of $8000 resulted when the Kishwaukee Methodist church was burned Sunday morning, just as the congregation was assembling for services.

TRIAL OF ARLIE BOSWELL STARTS IN U. S. COURT TODAY

Former State's Attorney Charged With Taking Booze Money

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Deputy marshals guarded the federal building today, questioning all who sought to ascend to the second floor where Arlie O. Boswell, former State's Attorney of Williamson County, and five other defendants went on trial before Judge Walter Lindley on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition act.

All stairways leading to the second floor were closed with folding gates and each person who appeared was required to identify himself. Many curiosity seekers were turned away and only a few spectators were admitted because of the great number of witnesses, defendants and attorneys.

Selection of a jury began this morning. Taking of testimony was not expected to get under way until late today and a trial of several days' duration was anticipated.

Boswell sat at the counsel table with six defense lawyers. The other defendants are George Bell, former coroner of Williamson County; H. T. Boyd and Hezlie Byrn, former chiefs of Police of Marion and Johnston City, respectively; and Pete Salmo and Domenico Loni, alleged bootleggers.

Alleged Bribery
Boswell is alleged to have accepted protection money from bootleggers and dropped the prosecution of liquor cases against certain persons. It is also charged he turned over a truck load of confiscated liquor to Charles Burger, gang leader, who subsequently was hanged for murder.

The parts played by the other defendants in the alleged conspiracy are not made clear in the indictment. Among the 125 witnesses summoned were seventeen convicted held under heavy guard in the marshal's office. They had been brought from Chester prison and from jails at Marion and Danville yesterday and had spent the night in Belleville jail.

Convict Witnesses
Among the convict witnesses for the government are Art Newman, Fred Wooten, Leslie Simpson and Riley Simmons, recently sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Mrs. Lory L. Price, wife of a state highway patrolman. They were brought from Marion jail with Earl and Benjamin Righnowar, convicted bootleggers, and Jack Curren.

From Chester penitentiary came nine men, some of them serving life terms. They are: Ray, Rone, Alton Parker, Harry Thomasson, Ray Hyland, Harvey Dunney, Cliff Hatcher, Wayne Sprague, Ural Gowen and Benjamin Sweet, all former Burger gangsters, with the exception of Sweet, Joe Booker, under prison sentence, was brought from Danville jail.

Lighthouse Man Is Given Heavy Fine
Lawrence Somner, living north of Ashton, near Lighthouse, was fined $100 and costs on a charge of driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition Sunday morning when arraigned before Justice J. O. Shauls in police court. Somner was arrested Saturday night after 12 o'clock by Chief Van Bibber and Officer Dick Pomeroy at the north approach to the Galena avenue bridge, when he had crashed into a car driven by A. G. Buchanan, causing considerable damage. The officers were on the scene and the police car narrowly escaped being hit.

Somner not only paid the fine assessed by the court but was also obliged to settle for the damages to the Buchanan car.

W. A. Long, a transient brick layer, arrested Friday night while, according to police, in the midst of a lemon extract celebration, was sent to the county jail in default of a fine of $10 and costs assessed by Justice Terrell in police court on a charge of being intoxicated.

Died From Fumes In Gasoline Tank Car
An attempt to salvage a few gallons of gasoline which still remained in a Standard Oil Co. railroad tank car in Rockford Saturday afternoon, resulted in the death of Robert Moss, 20, who was asphyxiated by fumes of the gasoline when he lowered himself into the tank to bail out the small amount of fuel remaining. As the fumes began to have their effect on him he cried for help and section men, working nearby went to his assistance. However they were unable to get him out of the car at once and he became unconscious before they could extricate him. He died soon after being removed from the tank.

SAN MALO STARS IN CONCERT HERE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Sanders, Pianist, Also Delights Lovers of Good Music

Alfredo San Malo, South American violinist, appeared Sunday afternoon at the Dixon theatre, in the much anticipated concert which was given under the auspices of the Dixon Civic Music Association, and the celebrated virtuoso justified all claims which had been made for him, as the large audience gave him enthusiastic applause, which sometimes swelled to the proportions of an ovation. Much was expected of him, and San Malo fulfilled all expectations and more. He was most gracious in his responses to encores, demanded by the delighted audience.

Accompanying San Malo was Troy Sanders, who appeared with Mojica in Dixon recently in a Civic Music concert, and who at that time won many friends. Mr. Sanders possesses a most pleasing personality and is one of the most talented pianists ever appearing in Dixon, a veritable wizard at the keys.

San Malo's program yesterday was as follows:

Gavotte Bach
Aria Tartini
Moses Fantasia Paganini
Devil's Trill Tartini
Symphonie Espagnole Liao
Andante
Rondo
Londonderry Air Kreisler
The Flight of the Bumble Bee

Romanza Andaluza Sarasate
Tambourin Chinois Kreisler
Troy Sanders at the Piano

An outstanding feature of the virtuoso's playing, aside from his faultless technique, was the unusual purity and sweetness of tone. In the second selection of the first group on the program, a number with appealing and elusive charm, the peculiar "singing" tone of the melody was most apparent. In the number written for one string, the "G," string, San Malo played the difficult selection beautifully. He was encored and played a charming waltz by Schubert. So it was, through the entire program, each number seeming to be more highly enjoyed than the one preceding it. San Malo is an unusual artist; a born violinist, a trained virtuoso, playing the simplest melody with a charm and mastery which marks him as one of the greatest violinists of his day.

The "Devil's Trill," which might be called the high light of the program brought into action San Malo's versatility, his insight, his power and charm. It was a masterpiece, well done.

Mr. Sanders announced that he had been requested to give a group of piano solos and gave a number of enjoyable selections including a Prelude by Debussy; a charming dreamy lit, "In a Boat," an American composition, and one written by John Alden Carpenter of Evanston. To the enthusiastic encore he responded with Granger's "Country Gardens," having been informed he said, that many children and young people attend the Civic Music concerts in this city. If possible his last number was more heartily applauded than the others.

After one of San Malo's difficult selections in which Mr. Sanders' accompaniment and sympathetic interpretation assisted in no small part, the virtuoso, grasped his hand as the audience heartily applauded.

"Londonderry Air," a beautiful and somewhat sad number was a favorite with some; and the lovely Romanza Andaluza was with others. At the conclusion of this group San Malo responded to several encores, playing a Spanish dance by Sarasate; and a very charming Serenade written by San Malo. The entire program was one of much enjoyment everyone present, and the Civic Music Association is again congratulated on the talent they send to Dixon. There were present yesterday many members from Ashton, Amboy and Sterling, and vicinities.

SOLUTION BANK MURDER NEAR, OFFICIALS SAY
Check of Dead Man's Affairs May Lead to Solution

Sullivan, Indiana, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Solution of the mysterious death last Wednesday morning of Edgar D. Maple, vice-president of the Peoples National Bank & Trust Company is near, investigators insisted today. Maple's body was found near an open vault in the bank under circumstances that indicated he might have been murdered. There was evidence also that favored a theory of suicide. W. H. McGrew, Coroner, has returned a verdict holding that the banker was murdered by an unknown person. Other officials have accepted the Coroner's verdict and are attempting to identify the murderer.

A thorough check of Maple's affairs has been started in the hope that some clue to his death may be found. He left life insurance policies of an approximate value of $127,000. One of these policies in the amount of $25,000 named the bank of which he was an officer as beneficiary and specified that the policy was to protect the bank against loss incurred by any dealings with the First State Bank of Shelbyville, near here. Jessup Bolinger, president of the Shelbyville Bank, has confessed that the Sullivan Bank held $80,000 in notes he had forged.

The mystery of $4,000 that bank officials say is missing from the open vault is also still unsolved. Bank directors have adopted the theory that Maple was slain by the person who took the $4,000.

PASSENGERS OF GROUNDED SHIP ARE TAKEN OFF

President Garfield, on World Cruise, Goes Aground

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Her 81 passengers transferred to another ship, the Dollar liner President Garfield was hard aground today on a coral reef in the Bahama Islands.

The passengers, with their baggage and the ship's mail cargo, were taken by the Pan-America to be landed at Nassau, Bahama Islands today.

The Pan-America went to the assistance of the President Garfield when the ship sent out an SOS call at 7:25 a. m., yesterday.

Announcement of the safe transfer of the passengers 12 hours later was made by Robert E. Duff, operating manager of the Dollar Line here. He said the officers and crew of the President Garfield, numbering 150 which was not taking water and was in no immediate danger.

Were Starting World Cruise
Messages received here said the transfer of the passengers was effected without accident in a calm sea and had been completed within a short time after the arrival of the Pan-America.

Both the President Garfield and the Pan-America left New York last Thursday, the Dollar liner starting on a world cruise and the Pan-America on her regular run to Nassau.

Conditions 100 Years Ago Compared to 1929

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—Prohibition days, when there were more saloons than grocery stores and Andrew Jackson opened a keg of rum at his inaugural party, were contrasted last night with present conditions in an address by Mrs. Anna Marden De Yo, corresponding secretary of the W. C. T. U.

"One hundred years ago," she said, "at Andrew Jackson's inauguration, a keg of rum was opened for the mob in a public room of the White House. Soon we are to witness the inauguration of Herbert Hoover, personally and politically dry."

THE STARS AND STRIPES
What nobleness, what glory you declare,
What ideals typify!
Symbolic of a friendship to mankind,
Your manner lights the sky.

Red stripes! Assurance that before the brave
Ignoble wrongs give way:
Emblem for all of opportunity,
The dawning of a day.

White stripes! Recalling words of long ago,
The pure truth God shall see,
A wide-flung truth which all the world can prove Brings joy and liberty.

Blue fields with stars of white! True brotherhood,
The world in unity;
A pledge to all mankind of helpfulness
And unselfed charity.

Your blended whole checks evil's forward march,
And bids its hosts stand still:
You hold the promise of a world at peace,
To all mankind good will.

Support For Anti-Vivisection Bill
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—Support for Senator Thomas J. Courtney's anti-vivisection bill appeared in a new quarter today when Miss Dorothy Rand, secretary of the Illinois Anti-Vivisection Society, announced that George R. Arliss, world famous actor, and latest interpreter of Shakespeare's "Shylock," had entered the campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. Arliss, now in Milwaukee, wired officials of the society here that they would sponsor the first of a series of educational luncheons to be held in the interest of the Courtney measure which would abolish vivisection in the medical colleges, research laboratories and public schools in Illinois. The luncheon will be held in the Grand Ball Room of the LaSalle Hotel, Thursday, Jan. 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Arliss have long been ardent anti-vivisectionists and both are life members of the society. Until now, however, they have never taken an active part in the work of any of the societies.

The Illinois society's campaign is said by its officials to be the first concerted effort made to obtain state legislation regulating and controlling vivisection. Every anti-vivisection society in the United States and Canada, of which there are more than forty, is preparing to throw its full strength back of the Illinois movement, Miss Rand said.

The opening hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" was sung, and Mrs. Chapman Leake led the devotional, reading for the lesson, Rev. 21, 1-7, 23-27. The business was conducted with the President, Mrs. Chas. Willford, presiding.

The minutes were read by the secretary and approved, also treasurer's report was accepted. Other items of business were taken care of at this time.

The chapter, "The Dominance of the City" was given by Mrs. Henry Bills and was full of information and interest.

Miss Ruth Levig, accompanied by Mrs. C. C. Rorick, sang sweetly two numbers, that were much enjoyed by all.

The February meeting is to be the annual birthday meeting at the home of Mrs. A. D. George on Thursday at 12:30 with a program following. The coin cards will be brought in at this time.

Mrs. Bills with her group consisting of Mesdames Nichols, Dodge, Baum, Morris, Harms, Wadsworth, and Loder served tempting refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Springer-Berie Wedding Saturday

Martin S. Springer and Julia A. Berie of this city were united in holy wedlock at the Evangelical parsonage Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. F. Brandellner performed the ceremony using the beautiful ring service. They were attended by the bridegroom's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Springer. The newlyweds will make their home with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Berie, Route 2. The best wishes of their many friends are extended to them.

Miscellaneous Shower On Friday Evening

Friday evening, members of the Shepherd's class of the Grace Evangelical church arranged and cleverly carried out a miscellaneous surprise shower on Mr. and Mrs. Elray Schermerhorn at the home of William Joynt. The evening proved a most delightful one, at the conclusion of which delicious refreshments were served.

Prairieville P. T. A. Meeting Thursday

The postponed meeting of the Prairieville P. T. A. was held Thursday evening, Jan. 17. The attendance was larger than expected, about 100 being present, even though weather and road conditions were very unfavorable.

The program opened with a song by the pupils of the primary room. After the business meeting, several of the pupils of the grammar room gave recitations, consisting of short selections from well known authors, which they had committed to memory as a part of their regular school work.

The play "Joe Guess Runs a Boarding House" was given by a group of men representing the Purina Mills. It was amusing and entertaining, and brought forth hearty applause, but at the same time it was educational and instructive and taught a lesson which might well be heeded by all dairy men. It's theme was lower cost of production and more profit, which ultimately means better homes, better churches, better schools and more prosperous communities.

Between scenes of the play the audience was delighted with several violin-piano duets played by Mr. George Thompson and Miss Marion Myers, and also violin duets by Mr. Thompson and John Lawrence.

The closing program number was a song by the grammar room pupils.

The hospitality committee served refreshments consisting of sandwiches, pickles, cookies and coffee.

London Law-Makers MUST SIT AND LISTEN

London—(AP)—Knitting needles may not click an accompaniment to the debates in the London County Council.

This unwritten law was laid down with emphasis by an irate masculine objector when Dame Beatrice Lyall, member for East Fulham, produced a pair during a recent allnight session and proceeded to click off interminable hours of debate with as many inches of warm woolen sock.

No woman has yet had the hardihood to produce knitting needles in the House of Commons, but in the past men M. P.'s have done so.

The most famous knitter in Parliamentary annals was one of the Watson brothers, who were well known to a former generation at Westminster. They were such figures wherever they appeared, a man six feet tall and proportionately hefty, plying his knitting needles throughout debates in the house must have been incongruous. His fellow M. P.'s apparently thought nothing of it, however, for there are no chronicled objections in Parliamentary archives.

THE USES OF SCIENCE.

Professor Harry Elmer Barnes of Smith College, addressing the American Association for the Advancement of Science, declares that man, instead of being the lord of all creation, is only a "temporary chemical episode" on an insignificant planet which he described as a "celestial juvenile and cosmic dwarf."

This, says Professor Barnes, is clearly proved by modern science, and because of it we must furnish ourselves with an entirely new conception of God.

This sounds a trifle depressing to those of us who still cling to the old-fashioned notions about souls, immortality and so on. However, it is only fair to point out that science hasn't proved anywhere near as much as Professor Barnes seems to think it has. What he is giving us is not the hard-and-fast conclusions of modern science, but his own opinions.

Every so often some man of learning surveys the facts and theories which science has produced, draws his own conclusions, and announces these conclusions to the world as facts. There is an intolerance and a dogmatism to it as unpleasant as the intolerance and dogmatism of the medieval theology which the scientists so abhor.

For instance: Professor Barnes has evolved in his mind a new conception of man; therefore he demands a new conception of God. Who needs it? Surely not those of us who fail to see eye to eye with him on his new conception of man. And if he is correct, why should any "temporary chemical episode" need any conception of God at all?

His little speech is valuable, however. It illustrates aptly the double-edged nature of that keen, glistening tool called science. For science, while it is making us rich and free, and is preparing us for the larger life to an extent that would not have been dreamed possible a few decades ago, is also quite capable of cutting out of life some of its highest values, and leaving us far worse off than we were before.

If, just at the moment when it is releasing up from countless old shackles and launching us on a new golden age, science should convince us that we are mere accidents of cosmic chemistry, devoid of souls and doomed to an eternal death a few brief years of activity—then we should not be beginning a golden age, but an age of great darkness.

Luckily, however, science isn't doing anything of the kind. It is presenting us with a tremendous variety of new facts, and to date no one has come forward big enough and far-sighted enough to harmonize and interpret them for us properly. Eventually the poet of the new day will arise, just as it has always happened before. Meanwhile, it might be well to bear in mind that there is a vast difference between the established conclusions of science and the ideas of individual professors.

DRIVING TOO SLOWLY.

A New York man who persisted in driving along a busy street at a very slow speed was arrested and taken to court by a patrolman; and even though the judge was obliged to free him because he could find no law prohibiting slow driving, we're inclined to think that the officer who made the arrest was dead right.

When we talk about the dangers of traffic we usually mention the speeder first of all. But the slow-poke is often just as big a danger—and an even bigger nuisance.

It is the slow-poke who causes people to break out of traffic lanes in an effort to make reasonable time; and this breaking out of traffic lanes causes nobody knows how many accidents. The slow-poke also is responsible for the custom of passing on the right—another source of crashes. On all busy streets he should be eliminated; and if, as in New York, there is no law to cover his case, one ought to be passed, pronto.

Outstanding in the day's news is the advertisement in the Clinton (Mass.) Daily Item of a "Scotch Concert and Ball," at which the entertainment was to be given by "a singer with two voices."

New biographies are aimed at the debunking of Buffalo Bill. Those old yarns about the plainsman probably were just a lot of bear stories.

A Pullman porter was robbed the other day. Maybe there's something to Emerson's law of compensation after all.

It's a high pressure age. If you can make a better mousetrap than another man the world will beat a path to your door suggesting improvements.

It is proposed to make false teeth from steel. Suppose now all the dentists will be installing riveting hammers.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"What is the meaning of all this?" cried Scouty. "We have some amiss. Who does this big hand belong to, that has grabbed our engine tight. We haven't done a thing that's wrong? Why can't we travel right along? Although it may be just a joke, it doesn't seem quite right."

Then Coppy looked around and said, "Oh, look! I see a giant's head. A monstrous man has seized us and we're in an awful mess. What makes him laugh and shiver so? His body's swinging to and fro. I'm sorry that we took this ride. We're done for now, I guess."

The monstrous giant then cried, "Ha, ha! I've caught the tiny crowd. What funny little fellows. Why, you're tiny as can be. I do not envy you at all. Say, don't you wish that you were tall, and had big arms and shoulders, and a fat, strong fist like me?"

"Well, maybe so," one tiny said. And then the giant shook his head.

"Oh, no, you don't," he shouted. Being small is really fine. Why, you can travel here and there, and almost float out on the air. You're lucky, you don't have to lead a clumsy life, like mine."

"The times then were glad to hear him say that there was naught to fear. 'I promise I won't hurt you,' said the giant, with a grin. 'When everything is said and done, we five will simply have some fun. And if you will agree to that, I think we'd best begin.'"

"Hurray," cried Scouty. "Sure, we're game. Remember though, you'll be to blame if anything goes wrong with us. This whole thing's up to you." This made the giant laugh once more. In fact he broke out in a roar. And then he said: "Oh, I'll take care, in anything I do."

(The Tinnies go to the giant's house in the next story.)

With Honce on His Trip Around State of Illinois

BY CHARLES HONCE
(Associated Press News Editor)

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—"Good Old Siwash" George Fitch called it when he wrote his inimitable stories of college life a decade or more ago.

And "Good Old Siwash" evoked memories of Knox to many readers for Galesburg was the locale of the late humorist's yarns.

Knox and its twin and rival, Lombard, together with a string of other educational institutions, have made Galesburg one of the educational centers of Illinois even to the extent of dictating the name of "College City."

With 1,200 college students, education unfolds its banner along side three others pointing the path of the city's destiny—Railroads, Industry and Agriculture.

Big Division Point
Galesburg can produce some highly pointed statistics on the subject of railroads alone for this happens to be the largest division headquarters of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy. The largest division headquarters is translated into a payroll of 3,300, and in turn these 3,300 have $5,000,000 annually to spend. Sixty other industries—starting with brick manufacturing and continuing through perogolas and violins—duplicate the railroad figures for employees and payrolls.

Galesburg, which now is breaking 30,000 in the municipal population handicap, can look backward over ninety-three years, for it was in 1836 that the first settler arrived. That ninety-three years is crowded with history, with probably a high note sounded in the famous Lincoln-Douglas debate in 1858. Notables from all parts of the country gathered here last year for the observance of the seventieth anniversary of this outstanding event.

These notables included, Frank Mc-

Glynn, the inimitable, whose claim to fame rests upon his impersonation of Abraham Lincoln in the play of that name by John Drinkwater; Dr. William E. Barton, whose books upon Lincoln are regarded as authentic and enviable by every other student of the great Emancipator; Julius Rosenwald, whose collection of Lincoln autographs is probably unsurpassed; distant relatives of Lincoln—Mr. Lincoln, they call him in Galesburg—and a score or more of wrinkled, ageing men and women who stood in the rain seventy-one years ago to listen to that memorable debate.

In Galesburg, as they recall with gratification the commemoration last year, one comparatively minor event stands out—at least, people outside Galesburg thought it a minor event. That was when McGlynn, in the character of Abraham Lincoln in the play, stepped out of character long enough to take a curtain call. McGlynn created the part many years ago. Through the years, he had steadfastly refused to take his curtain calls—until he came to Galesburg. There, a seasoned professional, supported by amateurs—students at Knox college—he responded to persistent applause long enough to step from behind the purple hangings in the Little Theater at Knox and tell his audience that it was one of the outstanding moments of his life.

The next day he again took the part of the martyred president, and standing on a rostrum built where the original Lincoln-Douglas debate platform stood, gave in part the words of that famous debate upon which hinged the question of whether these states be free or slave.

Pride in Homes.

Although Galesburg is a typical Illinois industrial city it takes pride in its fine homes and its home atmosphere. Bearing this out, it calls attention to the fact that Edward Bok, the well known editor and writer, selected Galesburg as "one of the four American cities nearest reaching his ideal; one of the four most desirable cities in which to live in this great nation; nearest the ideal in its opportunities for real living for men, women and children." The quotes are from the Galesburg Chamber of Commerce. There is further verification in the fact that Galesburg home owners approach 75 per cent.

The last election held considerable local interest to Galesburg residents as it placed one of the city's leading business men and publishers—Omer N. Custer—in the office of State Treasurer. Mr. Custer is publisher of the Galesburg Register-Mail and a member of The Associated Press. The present daily is a consolidation of two papers which had served the community for many years. W. W. Whipple is managing editor of the Register-Mail; Fred R. Jelliff is editor and Richard E. Jelliff is associate editor.

Mr. Custer's election brings a reminder that many Illinois publishers and editors have served the state in high office. The new administration also finds Fred R. Sterling, editor of the Rockford Register-Gazette continuing his duties as Lieutenant Governor.

Recent years have brought many improvements to Galesburg's "loop." The latest addition to the downtown district is a fine seven story office building covering almost a block. An interesting point about this building is that it follows the modern trend in architecture, accentuating the vertical line and the setbacks.

Galesburg is the center of a rich farming community. It is the county set of Knox county, which has 2500 farms and raises 9,000,000 bushels of corn alone yearly. The county's livestock statistics also use up a lot of figures.

Galesburg can show you about everything in the civic line from parks to armories, and there are plenty of golf courses. A flying field is about the only item missing from the list and this soon is to be supplied.

There is a lot in slogans, and Galesburg has them. "The City of Opportunity" is one; "Where People Enjoy Living" is another.

Some place there should be mention that Galesburg manufactures a lot of brick.

Springfield—(AP)—Public observance of the 120th birthday of Springfield's greatest citizen, Abraham Lincoln, will be sponsored February 11 by the Mid-Day Luncheon Club of Springfield with Theodore G. Bilbo, governor of Mississippi, and Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church of Chicago as speakers.

Louis L. Zimmerman, governor of Illinois, has been asked to be chairman at the services, which will be held at the state arsenal here. Choirs of the Springfield churches and an orchestra will contribute music.

Chicago—(AP)—Dog-days will come weekly for the next few months—on the air.

Literally, as well as figuratively, a plea for the friendless pup is to be broadcast Wednesday evening (Jan. 23) at 6 o'clock from WCFL, the Chicago Federation of Labor radio station, by a group of humanitarians under the auspices of the Illinois Anti-Vivisection Society.

This program, put on the air in the interest of the Courtney measure to abolish vivisection which will come before the senate soon, is the first of a series of musical programs by which the society hopes to educate the public to what it declares are the evils of the practice.

These programs will be put on the air each week until the Courtney measure is finally disposed of by the legislature.

In addition to the appropriate musical numbers noted speakers on the subject are to appear before the microphone each week.

can Indians, Vice President Elect Charles Curtis has written council officials here as follows:

"The framed resolution has been received and I greatly appreciate your kindness in sending the same. It was indeed fine of the council to take such action."

This is the first honorary life membership issued by the organization since its inception in 1923. It was presented to Senator Curtis in view of the fact that he was the first man of Indian blood to attain the distinction of the high office of vice-president of the United States, and also in view of his long and distinguished service in the United States Senate.

The Grand Council Fire is composed of Indian and peaceable membership, about fifteen tribes being represented in the Indian membership.

Humboldt—(AP)—Cold floors and religion don't mix well. Profession talents of divine healing and converting with the usual wild outbreaks of emotion that characterize "Holy-Roller" meetings, two men and one woman are alleged to have hypnotized two local high school girls; worked them into such a frenzy that they fell to the floor "whooping" and laid there three hours.

They "got religion" and incidentally the "flu" for their pains. Exposure on the cold floor according to physicians, was directly responsible for their illness.

The girls' fathers grew angry—rejection of this sort was to expensive. Accompanied by a policeman they broke up the meeting and forced the revivalists out into the road, where the more hardy continued their meeting in sub-zero weather.

The revivalists then announced their intentions of converting all of Humboldt, and if necessary to enter the local high school to "combat the ungodliness of present day schooling." Added insult, apparently, for authorities, on complaint of many citizens, chased the "healers" to other scenes of activity.

NEW THEORIES ON EVOLUTION GIVEN BY U. S. BIOLOGIST

Says Various Species were Born As Freaks and Then Survived

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Grave doubt is cast on current theories of evolution by Dr. Austin H. Clark, biologist of the United States National Museum, who has a theory of his own to replace them.

As he explains it, Darwin was wrong, and so was Lamarck. So are their followers on almost all vital points, he declares, and in the long quarrel between the so-called fundamentalists and so-called modernists on the origin of mankind in particular and animal life in general he gives comfort to the fundamentalists. "So far as concerns the major groups of animals," he said, "the creationists seem to have the better of the argument. There is not the slightest evidence that any of the major groups arose from any other. Each is a special animal-complex, related more or less closely to all the rest, and appearing, therefore, as a special and distinct creation."

In brief, Dr. Clark holds that all life is obeying a constant urge to produce certain forms and that when these happen to be born into a favorable environment they survive as new types of animals and plants. He contends that there is no first or last in life forms and that the amoeba and vertebrate might have been produced at the same time.

Using the giraffe as an illustration of evolution theories, Lamarckians hold in substance that the giraffe grew his neck because his ancestors were forced to stretch to get food and that through exercise the necks grew longer.

Darwin's theory, with some modifications, was that of the giraffe's ancestors some had longer necks than others. They had to feed on trees, and the ones born with long necks had a much better chance for survival.

Original Giraffes Were Freaks?
Dr. Clark, on the other hand, explains the giraffe by declaring that the original pair were freaks born of some other animals, possibly antelopes, and that the food supply was favorable to the preservation of the pair who came into the world for some mysterious reason with long necks.

He said he believed that man appeared in the world suddenly, and declared in somewhat the same fashion as the giraffe.

ILLINOIS QUIZZES

Q—I got into an argument the other night about Illinois' coal. I contended that Illinois had more coal than any state in the union and a friend claimed that Pennsylvania had. Which is right?

A—Neither is right. Colorado has more coal than any other state. But Illinois contains more than twice as much coal as Pennsylvania. That far you win over your friend. Further details on coal:

Coal is an important mining industry in 51 of the 102 counties in Illinois. Sixty-seven per cent of Illinois is underlaid with coal. Illinois has the largest coal mine in the United States and the deepest.

Two Men Held For Marriage of Girl, 11, to Blind Pastor

Marion, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Two men still were in custody today in connection with the marriage of Serilda Clendenin, 11, to Joseph H. Benton, 54 year old blind preacher. Benton is held on bigamy charges and Edward Hayes, brother-in-law of the girl, is charged with violation of the marriage laws in performing the ceremony after being ordained a minister by Benton. The marriage has been annulled by Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell. The mother of the girl testified in court that she had sanctioned the marriage when the blind minister said it was the command of God that he wed her daughter.

HARD WATER PLUS MELO MAKES SOFT WATER.

Ring out the scum!
Ring in the soft water!

Good news! Water need no longer be hard, even in this hard-water country. Scum need no longer form in the bathtub! Dirty rings need no longer be scrubbed from tubs, dishpans or wash-basins!

Use Melo to soften hard water! It prevents the forming of the dirty ring. It makes water delightfully soft. It saves from 1/3 to 1/2 the amount of soap ordinarily used. It makes soap much more effective. With or without soap, water softened with Melo is a wonderful cleaner. Get it at your grocer's.

SCANDAL OF TWO DECADES AGO IS BEING PROBED

Sanitary District Payroll May be Probed by Legislature

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

BY GILES L. FINDLEY

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Long shadows of scandal dancing across the pathway of the 56th Illinois General Assembly have brought consternation to veteran politicians who foresee an investigation into the "jack-pot" investigation of two decades ago.

William Lorimer, Chicago Congressman, was elected United States Senator, May 26, 1909, after the 46th Illinois General Assembly in joint sessions had taken 94 ballots without electing a man to succeed Senator J. Hopkins, Aurora. On the 95th ballot, Lorimer received 108 votes, a constitutional majority, and was declared elected.

More than a year later, Sept. 20, 1910, a sub-committee of the United States Senate came to Chicago and heard testimony until October 8, concerning Lorimer's eligibility. This sub-committee reported December 21, 1910, that he was eligible.

In the meantime, the activities of evidence of bribery in the election a Chicago newspaper had uncovered and had published the confession of Charles A. White, member of the House of Representatives in which he said that money had been paid several representatives and senators to vote for Lorimer.

January 17, 1911, the Helm committee was investigated by the state senate to investigate the charges. Members of this committee, activities of which won more space in newspapers than those of any other committee ever appointed were: Douglas W. Helm, chairman, Logan Hay, John C. McKenzie, Samuel A. Ettelson and Frank W. Burton. They made their report May 17, 1911, almost two years after the election.

As a result of the findings of the Helm Committee the Dillingham committee was appointed in the United States Senate, June 7, 1911. Following their findings, Senator Lorimer was barred from the Senate in 1912.

Accounts of Lorimer's election in the senate journal show that 202 members of the assembly voted on his election. Two members were absent. Republicans manned both houses with 89 representatives and 38 senators, while the democrats mustered 64 representatives and 13 senators. Almost as many Democrats voted for Lorimer as Republicans 53 Democrats and 35 Republicans voting for him.

Following the publication of White's confession, the late Lee O'Neil Browne of Ottawa was indicted on trial twice, but was acquitted.

Senator John Broderick, a Democrat from Chicago, was indicted in Senator Broderick is the only member of either house implicated in Sangamon county, and also acquitted.

the bribery charges who still is a member.

Three representatives and one senator testified at the various trial that they had received from $1,000 to $2,500 to vote for Lorimer. Representatives Charles A. White, H. J. C. Beckmeyer and Michael S. Link testified they received bribes from Browne, while D. W. Holtzlaw, a senator testified he received $2,500 for voting for Lorimer. Holtzlaw, a prominent banker, farmer and member of the Baptist church at Duka, Ill., resigned from the senate.

Senator Helm's committee report, as recorded in the senate journal, concludes: "Your committee further reports that in the record of the Browne case and before the investigation committee of the national senate there appears much testimony relating to the payment and division of money among certain members of the last General Assembly but this testimony does not affect any member who is now sitting in your honorable body, except perhaps Broderick, whose connection therewith is treated elsewhere in this report. The money so divided is supposed to have been collected from time to time during the legislative session and thereafter, and is facetiously termed by those participating therein as the 'jack pot'.

Former Senator Holtzlaw admits receiving $700 out of this particular corruption fund, but since he is no longer a member of this body, we make no recommendation thereon."

Holtzlaw testified at Broderick's trial that on May 25, 1909, met Broderick in a hotel in Springfield and told him he intended to vote for Lorimer. He said Broderick told him there would be $2,500 in it for him. He claimed to have received this in Broderick's west side saloon in Chicago, June 16, 1909. He also said he received $700 from the "jack pot" in July of the same year, also at the saloon.

Seven members of the 56th General Assembly were members of the 46th General Assembly which elected Lorimer. Senators Martin B. Bailey, Henry M. Dunlap, John Broderick, Richard J. Barr, were members of the upper body, while Senator Norman G. Flagg, was a member of the House. David E. Shanahan, speaker John Griffin of Chicago, are the only of the House of Representatives and present members of the House at that session.

Lorimer became a candidate only about two weeks before he was elected. He received one vote on the five ballots taken between May 13 and May 25. He had the national support of Senators Aldrich and Penrose of the United States Senate and indirectly of President Taft.

Edward Hines, prominent Chicago lumberman, was ejected from the Union League club for his reported activity in raising funds for Lorimer. No testimony ever placed responsibility on Lorimer for the bribery.

DRUMMING UP TRADE
The golf pro was giving his wife a lesson. He was very good-looking and an interested crowd of girls gathered round to watch.

"Now, dearest," said the pro, "you hold the club like this; and then sweetheart, you take up your stance like this finally, darling you hit the ball like this."

"That's enough," snapped his wife. "You're not trying to teach me—you're trying to attract a few clients."—Tit-Bits

Announcing A NEW AND MIGHTIER Majestic ELECTRIC RADIO QUALITY YOU CAN ACTUALLY FEEL!

Here in a few words is the story of the latest Majestic Achievement:

To build a product better, finer and for less money than has ever been asked for the highest quality merchandise before, is no easy task. All this, and more, was accomplished by MAJESTIC Electric Radio in 1928—an achievement that set the world talking, thinking and buying MAJESTIC. Since last June, when the first MAJESTIC receiver left the factory, over 600,000 MAJESTICS have been produced, and are giving such consistently good performance that this, too, has amazed the world.

To make a product better than those that have gone before was a real achievement—but how to make the best product that could be made for the money still better, was a task that might well appear impossible.

Yet MAJESTIC has done it. Under the guiding hand of William C. Grunow, a genius of production, whose foresight, imagination, and ability to weave the finest technical achievements into mass production of radio receivers, has brought him international fame—A new and finer MAJESTIC has been created.

Its performance is astonishing, its beauty outstanding, its price amazing.

When you see and hear these new MAJESTIC receivers, you forget all but quality—quality of performance, quality of appearance that you can really feel. You only know you want to own one of these new models—to have it for your very own—to add breathless beauty to your home and give you matchless performance which puts a new song of happiness in your heart.

Forget all but quality, yet receive your greatest thrill when you learn the price. For MAJESTIC'S newest achievement, the radio with quality you can feel, is within reach of every purse.

Wedding Bells to Ring for Bebe

The other night over at Marion Davies' beach home in Hollywood someone noticed that Bebe Daniels of the movies was wearing a sparkler on her finger. Asked about it Bebe said Ben Lyon, also of movie note, gave it to her, and what do you suppose for? Why, to be married! They say it's to be soon. Here are Bebe and Ben.

Play Usual Swift Game

It is taken for granted in the mid-west that the Purdue basketball team will be one of the best and one of those favored highly to win the Big Ten championship. This year is no exception. Purdue has another one of those teams that has made Ward Lamber an immense success in the coaching world, and is stepping high and mighty in the championship race. Stretch Murphy, their elongated center, an all-conference man in 1934, is one of the stars of the team. Clyde Lyle a forward, and Dutch Schnaiter floor guard, are two other valuable. Red Sleight sees service as a guard in most games.

BACK AT WORK AND GRATEFUL TO THE GLY-CAS

Torturous Months of Neuritis Ended; No Equal for this Remedy, Mr. Young Says.

Mr. Stephen Young, 1329 Eighth Ave., Terre Haute, Ind., is among the thousands of former suffering men and women who have been given complete relief from the tortures of neuritis by Gly-Cas, the great new herbal remedy. Mr. Young just recently said:

MR. STEPHEN YOUNG.

"I drive a car in my work and some time ago my hands and arms began to give me trouble. I found out that I had neuritis and before I got through with it I had endured tortures. I did not give up at first and for months I kept working, although I suffered every minute and my hands were so stiff I could not grip the wheel. One morning I awakened and discovered I could not raise my arms or even close my hands. From then on I was in a terrible condition, unable to dress myself and could hardly get food to my mouth. We called medical aid, but for five weeks I kept getting worse. Rubbing treatments were resorted to, but they failed and baths did likewise. Finally Gly-Cas was suggested for me and we sent for the medicine. Then, for the first time I began to improve and before taking the second box of Gly-Cas I could use my hands and arms freely. I have gone back to work now and I'm driving a car every day and never do I have a pain or any of the stiffness or stiffness. It is all entirely gone. Gly-Cas brought me out of torture, has given me health and I know of no medicine to equal it."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy. Sold Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Amboy, Assenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

ASHORETH ASHE, engaged to HOLIS HART, her millionaire employer, finds herself, unexpectedly, in a wretched situation. An unpleasant story concerning their romance has reached the papers.

On top of that, Hollis agrees in an airplane accident with MONTY ENGLISH, a former sweetheart. And meantime, SADDIE MORTON (a friend of Ashoreth's) is threatening to sue Hollis. Saddle's game is blackmail. Ashoreth, mortified and frightened, determines to thwart Saddle's schemes, and marry Hollis immediately.

He telephones her from Connecticut, where the plane crashed. But he is on his way to Boston. And he tells her that he can have the five-day marriage law waived, and marry her in the morning.

She is excited and happy, but a bit dismayed because of the disconcerting news of Monty English. Monty was also flying to Boston. When Hollis telephoned, Monty was with him. He asked to speak to Mrs. Ashe, but the connection was abruptly severed.

Now, Ashoreth, with her head in a mad whirl, is planning for her marriage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIX.

GETTING married to a famous man isn't half as nice as it sounds. That is, it's a dreadful strain.

A regular nightmare, Ashoreth said. Only worse. Oh, much, much worse. . . . With reporters asking a girl how many nightgowns she had, and if it was a love match.

And would she please tell them the story of her romance, and how Mr. Hart proposed? And where they were going to live? And did she mean to have a family?

There were photographers, with big black cameras, on the steps. And movie men, who set up tripods on the sidewalk. There were reporters from every paper in town.

Saddle had disappeared. And Maizie wrung her plump hands, and called on heaven to witness a mother's grief.

Ashoreth wanted to be married in ivory satin, with a wimple like a nun's, to swathe her throat and face. She wanted to carry a pure white Easter lily, with a long stem.

All her life she had dreamed about it. All she had to do was close her eyes, and hear the organ music roll. She could see herself, a vision in filmy white, standing on a red carpet, before a great white altar, with candles so lofty they seemed half lost in the darkness.

Standing before a man of God, important in ecclesiastical robes and the trappings of churchly office.

PROBABLY every girl dreams of such a wedding. And some see their dreams come true.

Any girl would think that Ashoreth, who was to be married to one of the richest men in the country, could have been married in any fashion she chose. As a matter of fact, she had been married in the office of Mr. Harvey Higginbottom, who was his attorney. And happened, also, to be a justice of the peace.

She wore a black crepe satin, six months old. A small velvet hat, and a pointed fox scarf.

In her ears were large single pearls, and about her neck a graduated string. On the third finger of her left hand she wore another monstrous pearl, gleaming from a gorgeous setting of diamonds. Hollis had bought them in New York, after she had taken the train for Boston.

The scarf he had also bought. It was in the window of a nearby shop, and impressed itself upon him as being soft and beautiful enough to warm the pale, slim throat of his lovely Orchid. The pearls he had carried in his pocket from New York, a few moments before the ceremony.

Ashoreth carried an armful of orchids. Hollis, she decided, must have ordered them by the gross. They were in bowls and vases everywhere about Mr. Higginbottom's office. On the desk and the window sills, and the mantle.

They were married at noon, on the heels of an incredible morning.

HOLLIS had torn the story from the paper, and stuffed it in his pocket. Shortly Monty returned with help, and the injured pilot was conveyed to a hospital. By that time, wires across the nation were humming with news of the accident, and the remarkable escape of the two passengers. Names were ascertained, and the story of Hollis' return from the Caribbean linked with the news of the crash.

The Ashe—mother and daughter—looked the door of their apartment. And silenced the electric buzzer, and stuffed the telephone bell, to hear from Hollis' lips the story of his adventure with Monty English, former sweetheart of the girl he loved.

Maizie had met her future son-in-law stiffly. He was, she reflected sourly, old enough to be her elder brother. He had, moreover, involved Ashoreth in an unpleasant scandal. She looked on him with distrust, and shook his hand coldly, coloring with displeasure.

His ease and assurance put her at a disadvantage. So that she was awkward, and more ungracious perhaps than she meant to be.

She was jealous when he touched Ashoreth, and angry. She could have cried, when he took her child in his arms, and kissed her. Her mother instincts were outraged at a tiger's, and she wanted to strike his arms away, and tear his hands from Ashoreth's shoulders.

She thought of Monty, and could not dismiss him from her mind.

"If it was Monty," she thought, "I should not mind losing Ashoreth to him. It wouldn't be like losing her then."

She felt that Hollis would separate her forever from her adored child. And the dreadful fear became a horrible conviction, as she watched them together.

"TELL me," . . . She interrupted their love making. "Tell me, Mr. Hart, about Monty."

"Oh, yes—young English!" Hollis started. "A remarkably fine young man, Mrs. Ashe."

"Yes," Maizie agreed grimly. "He's one fine boy, Monty is. I love him as if he was my own son. They don't come any better than Monty. Money or no money, you can't beat a fine, clean boy, Mr. Hart."

"Oh, mother!" deprecated Ashoreth faintly.

"It's such a long story," apologized Hollis. "I'm afraid I haven't been very coherent. I told you about seeing the story in the paper, and trusting it in my pocket. Well, when young English came back, he noticed it. I'd destroyed the rest of the paper, do you see, and this was sticking out of my pocket. He reached, and pulled it out."

"The Hart fortune is estimated as exceeding $20,000,000. The family has been foremost in Boston society for many generations, and dates its American ancestry to the early Huguenot settlers. Mr. Hart is a sportsman of note. He is well known for his philanthropies, and has often been called the most eligible bachelor in America."

"Efforts to reach the Ashe family in Boston had failed at a late hour this afternoon. Following their departure from the boat, Mr. Hart registered at the Ritz, but checked out shortly. He and his fair companion are believed to be en route to Boston."

"For a moment, the boy looked as though I had struck him in the face. He staggered a bit, and I thought he was going to fall. The crash, had unnerved him a bit."

"Do I know her?" he gasped. "My God, man, I love her!"

Hollis looked directly at Ashoreth.

"And then," he told her, "I knew it must be Monty English—the boy who wanted to meet you at the pier. I think I put out my hand to him. I called him by name, I believe it's all a little hazy."

Maizie was wiping her eyes. "It's a shame!" she moaned. "My heart goes out to Monty. . . . That's why he was coming to Boston, Ashoreth—he'd read that story in the paper."

"Yes, he told me so," continued Hollis. "You see, Orchid, he couldn't know, my darling, how much I loved you. He was coming, I think, to beat me up, or shoot me, or something of the sort. He thought. . . ."

"POOR dear Monty!" murmured Ashoreth.

Maizie sat up straight, and looked suspicious.

"He was with you when you phoned," she said. "But he'd gone by the time I got to the telephone."

Hollis nodded. "Yes, Mrs. Ashe. He told me, after the connection was broken, that he had decided he would rather not talk. He was pretty much broken up, poor chap."

Ashoreth was deeply distressed. "But you told him, Holly, that everything was all right? And that we were going to be married?"

"I assured him, my dear, that I worshipped you beyond life and death, and that I mean to make you the happiest girl in the world. I told him we were going to be married in the morning. . . ."

"And then what did he say?" interrupted Maizie.

"That he thought he'd be getting back to New York," answered Hollis. "We shook hands, and said goodbye. And he congratulated me, like a prince."

Ashoreth swallowed a lump in her throat.

"Let's not talk about Monty," she said. "I don't want anything to spoil my happiness this night."

"Nothing will ever spoil your happiness, my darling," Hollis told her gravely. "I've telephoned my lawyer, dearest, and he will make arrangements to have the law waived, so we may be married in the morning. We'll have to file in intentions of course, and outwit the reporters as best we can."

"You'll never outwit them," warned Maizie ominously. "Don't I know? My husband was a newspaper man for 15 years, Mr. Hart, and there's no fooling the pack."

Days In Kentucky

The following interesting account of a public sale held away back in 1850, was received recently by Court Reporter A. C. Gossman, which gives some idea of articles which could be purchased more than 70 years ago at a public closing out sale in Kentucky:

"Having sold my farm and intending to move to Missouri I will sell at public sale, one mile west and four miles south of Harrisburg, Ky., on Saturday, September 28, 1850, the following described personal property. To-wit: one buck nigger, 25 years old, weight 210 pounds; four nigger wenches, 18 to 24 years old; three nigger boys, six years old; 13 nigger hoes; one fine sled; six yoke of oxen, broke; 10 ox yokes, with hickory bows; two ox carts with six inch tires; one saddle pony, five years old; one side saddle; three double shovels; 25 gallons whiskey in jugs; 100 gallons apple cider; two barrels of food sorghum; two barrels of krait; one extra good nigger whip; two tons of tobacco, two years old. Sale will start at 10:00 sharp. The terms are cash. I need the money."

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

WISCONSIN AND PURDUE IN BIG GAME OF WEEK

Boilermakers' Attempt for Championship is Threatened

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Coach Walter Meanwell and his band of Wisconsin short pass artists will attempt to short circuit Purdue's championship-bound machine at Lafayette tonight in what promises to be one of the liveliest battles of the entire Big Ten basketball campaign.

The contest is the outstanding attraction of this week's small card which calls for only two other conference skirmishes—Minnesota at Indiana tonight and Chicago at Ohio State Saturday.

Purdue with five straight victories was a decided favorite over the Badgers, who have won four games and lost one to Michigan, the only other undefeated team.

Both the Badgers and Boilermakers flashed championship form in their battles Saturday night. Purdue shattered a Hoosier tradition by defeating Indiana, 29 to 23, at Bloomington, while Wisconsin swamped Minnesota for the second time this season, 39 to 17, at Madison, Indiana, which virtually dropped out of the race with the defeat—its third in four games—threatened the Boilermakers, who were forced to make a desperate rally in the closing minutes to win. It was the first time Purdue ever defeated Indiana at Bloomington at basketball. Indiana is expected to have an easy time tonight with Minnesota, which has lost four straight games.

Purple in Threat
Northwestern today stood out as a great threat to those teams which have high hopes of winning the title. After dropping three straight games, Northwestern has come back with a rush defeating Ohio State and Iowa. Iowa fell before the Wildcats Saturday night, 27 to 28. The defeat was Iowa's second in four games.

Illinois was forced to the limit to defeat Chicago, 22 to 19. The team, counting table, showing games played, field goals, free throws total, opponents' totals; and personal fouls.

THIS WAY OUT
"Don't you think if I had lived in the olden days I'd have made a good knight?" asked the young man who had bored her for hours describing a movie he had seen.
"I don't care what you would have been then," observed the girl wearily, "but you might try to see what kind of a good-night you can make now."

THE CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

THE WARD OF THE SPORTSMEN
Of all the feathered game in this country, the ruffed grouse, with the possible exception of the quail, needs the most attention. He is peculiarly unable to take care of himself, and with widespread disease periodically reducing his numbers, the sportsmen are realizing that they must handle him with care if he is to survive these ravages plus the onslaught of the hunters.

The partridge is one of the hardest birds for sportsmen to shoot, and one of the easiest for game hogs to shoot. That is because the grouse has all his brains in his wings, and until he takes flight he is the woods' perfect dumb-bell. Any person bent on mere destruction of partridge can easily take the limit in a day where they are at all numerous. Any person bent on sport can take the limit of twigs and saplings, but a small percentage of birds will fall to his gun.

The partridge is like all other land fowl. He is not quite so bad as the 'fool hen' of the West, nor as the spruce hen of the north, which will sit on a limb in numbers and let you shoot one after the other until they are all gone, but he is bad enough. Often he will merely fly up into a tree, and sit there, sharply outlined against the sky giving you the once over. You can shoot at a grouse with a pistol in places where hunters are few, and he will not fly.

But when he does once decide to fly, he is a flash of lightning in the thickets. He chooses such heavy cover, and he is so expert at darting among saplings through spruce and alders, swamps, and even through brush, that he presents a very sporting target.

The result is obvious. The game hogs go into the woods and slaughter the birds, shooting them with shot guns without flushing them. Then, too, the partridge has a bad habit of coming out onto highways, especially late in the afternoon and very early in the morning. A certain type of hunter drives over these roads with loaded guns, and shoots from the car. This means that a lower bag limit must make up for the lack of brains of the grouse. The bag limit is comparatively high on ducks. It is harder to shoot sitting ducks than flying ones, since you can't get close enough to them. In other words, the ducks can, to a certain extent, take care of themselves. The same goes for many other kinds of game.

The sportsmen must take care of that poor thinker, but wonderful flyer, the ruffed grouse.

CLEVELAND WILL HAVE GREATLY CHANGED OUTFIT

But Few Regulars of Tribe Will be in Year's Lineup

BY KENNETH F. SANDERS
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)
Cleveland, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians will enter the 1929 campaign noncommittal on their prospects but hoping for the best from one of the most thoroughly overhauled lineups in the American League.

"We hope we have a better club than last year," was the only comment forthcoming from Billy Evans, general manager of the Tribe, and he admitted that the Redskins could fare much better this season and still not be much of an improvement over last year's seventh place outfit.

Outside the moundsmen, only the veteran Charley Jamieson in left field, Carl Lind at second base and Luke Sewell behind the bat will be found in their customary positions as the Tribe now stacks up on paper. Gone are George Burns, George Uhle, Homer Summa and lesser lights of the Tribe of other years.

The seemingly eternal hunt for a successor to Tris Speaker has resulted in the purchase of Dick Porter from Baltimore and Earl Averhill from San Francisco, both slugging outfielders who cost $45,000 each.

With the sale of Summa to Philadelphia and the release of Gerkin, Langford and others, the way is paved for Porter and Averhill to patrol the outfield with Jamieson.
Ollie Tucker of New Orleans, Charley Dorman from Tyler, Texas, and John Gill, from Decatur may help. Hudlin, Miller, Millus, Gray Shaute and Underhill are holdover hurlers available to Manager Rogers Peckinpaugh. He looks for further assistance from among such players as Holloway, Jimmy Sinn, Jame Moore, and Wesley Ferrell, all right handers.

International Boat Races are Arranged
New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Barnegat Bay Yacht Racing Association has accepted a challenge from Canada for another series of international races among the double Bilgeboard sloops, known as the inland lake scows. The Dominion is represented by the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club in this series starting four years ago. Three races have been held, Canada winning the last two after losing the first.

Tentative dates for the 1929 series have been fixed for July 20 and 21 on Lake St. Louis and August 30 and 31 on Barnegat.

Montgomery to Meet Stribling This Eve

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Declaring tonight's bout to be "the chance of a lifetime," Sully Montgomery, former Centre college football star, today was in top shape for his battle with Young Stribling. Montgomery stepped through a light workout yesterday as a windup. Stribling is not here yet but will arrive just before the bout. The scrap is scheduled to go eight rounds to a referee's decision.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF AGAIN

On January 7, 1926, the Pontiac Six came into existence. It had bodies by Fisher. It sold for $825. It introduced real luxury and beauty to buyers in the low-priced field.

But Pontiac's builders did not stop there. They knew that American people are constantly on the lookout for new and finer things. So in February, 1927, they introduced the New and Finer Pontiac Six. And it was lower in price than ever, selling for $775.

Then, in July, greatly increased production enabled Pontiac's builders to reduce the price again. Now Pontiac sold for $745.

Came 1928, and with it a still finer Pontiac. Even then the price remained only $745. And after six months, Pontiac was made faster, more powerful than ever and more attractive in style.

This brief history is significant. For it gives you an idea of something that is coming. Automobile history is repeating itself again. Soon Oakland will present a brand new Pontiac Six, an even greater advancement over its field than the original Pontiac represented in 1926. Watch for the

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO FLU

Coughs from Flu May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately. (adv.)
